DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 39-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The specification does not support the newly added claims 39-43 (see the entire specification for details).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

Art Unit: 1764

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1, 2, 4-17, 19-20, 22-27, 29, 30, and 32-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bergmeister et al (WO 01/41923).

Bergmeister discloses a process substantially the same as the claimed process in which a catalyst containing palladium, silver (oxide or metal), potassium (less than 01 wt%), halide, namely potassium fluoride and a support such as alumina is used for selectively hydrogenating unsaturated hydrocarbons such as dienes and acetylenes in the presence of sulfur impurity (the abstract; page 3, line 23 thru page 5, line 22; page 7, lines 1-22; page 8, line 24; page 10, line 10, line 11-21; page 11, line 1; page 13, lines 4-13; page 15, line 24 thru page 17, line 25page 18, lines 26 thru page 19, line 4; especially table I, catalysts such as D).

Clearly, Bergmeister discloses a hydrogenation step very similar to the claimed process except that Bergmeister does not disclose the feed of the hydrogenation step is derived from a fractionation tower as called for in claim 1, namely depropanizer as called for in claims 20 and

Art Unit: 1764

30. However, as disclosed on page 2, lines 8-27, namely 18-19, Bergmeister discloses that sulfur impurities can be found in depropanizer.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the Bergmeister process by using the feed from the depropanizer for the selective hydrogenation to produce saturated hydrocarbons or olefins since the Bergmeister process can be operated in the presence of sulfur impurities.

Regarding claims 39-43, the results of the reaction with such a catalyst is expected to be inherent in the Bergmeister process which is operated in the present of similar catalysts.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 9/29/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The argument that the recited ranges of potassium weight percentage and the molar ratio of fluoride to potassium is not disclosed in the prior art of record is not persuasive (see page 7, 1-22, examples, namely I.

The argument that applicants have obtained surprising results that demonstrate that patentability of the pending claims is not persuasive since the claimed process is not processes which applicants consider to yield unexpected results (see claims and examples). It has been established that evidence of unobviousness must be commensurate in scope with the claims. In re Kulling 14 USPQ 2d 1056, 1058 (Fed.
